Adirondack History 4 cr with Kate Dermody spaces avail 15 Adv./Liberal fulfills SUNY gen. ed. req in American History - fully

 Online Study Group **

This study will examine the history of the Adirondacks through the lens of a critical paradox: how can humans preserve our natural beauty while allowing public access to these places? The study will first investigate the pull factors and industries of the Adirondacks and the effects on the conservation movements. Students will read William H.H. Murray's writings and explore historical promotional images of the Adirondacks. This class will first investigate the pull factors and industries of the Adirondacks, and the effects on the conservation movements. Murray, as well as other writers wrote of the beauty, solitude and intimacy of the nature and Adirondacks. We will examine these writings, to explore how and why this "tourist propaganda" facilitated in the creation of the "American Vacation." In our study we will examine the lure of simplicity and the illusion of "roughing it" in the Adirondacks. We will read William H.H. Murray's writings, and explore historical promotional images of the Adirondacks. The study will explore the future of conservation and the Adirondacks.

American History from 1865 to Present Day 4 cr with Kate Dermody

Sex, History & Art 4 cr with Anthony Anadio spaces avail 11 Intro and Adv./Liberal fulfills SUNY gen. ed. req in Western Civilization - fully The Arts - fully

 Online Study Group **

Perhaps one of the most controversial topics in history, sex is as much a necessity for survival as is food, clothing, and shelter, and we can all say we are here because of it. Discussions and depictions of sex can be both taboo and tolerable at the same time with unpredictable swings of opinion throughout time. As part of the biological and cultural evolution of humanity, it is more than mere procreation. Sex is a powerful force in the development of religion, politics, and art. It has played a role in warfare, moral and legal codes, and sometimes it just drives us crazy. Beginning with a bit of pre-history, we will follow-up with the Greeks and continue through the Renaissance as we examine the symbolism and narratives of sex across a range of topics that include: sexuality, homosexuality, bestiality, incest, rape, prostitution, gender roles, love, and marriage. This study fully meets two Gen Ed requirements: Western Civilization and The Arts.

The Hudson River & its Valley: A Highway of Ideas & Commerce 4 cr with Anthony Anadio spaces avail 15 Intro and Adv./Liberal fulfills SUNY gen. ed. req in The Arts - fully American History - fully

 Online Study Group **

In his search for the imagined Northwest Passage to China, Henry Hudson sailed up the river that now bears his name. The immense wealth that would have followed from such a discovery was an irresistible lure for intrepid explorers and European nations. Realizing that he could navigate no further than present-day Albany, Hudson turned back, but over the next four centuries, immense wealth has steadily flowed from the waterway that the Indians called "Muh-he-kun-ne-tuk" (river that flows two ways). We will look at the River and its valley from a multitude of perspectives as we examine its role in the development of the original colonies, transportation, commerce, warfare, literature, the art of the Hudson River School, environmental concerns, and American Identity. Additionally, we will consider the notion of local history. In that context, even though the River is in the eastern part of New York State, the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825 stretched its influence across the state. Few things have transformed a state so completely, and in this study, we will explore the many connections between culture and history.

Still Good Enough?: U.S. Constitution & American Democracy 4 cr with Christopher Grill

 Meeting dates/time/location not yet determined ***

Is our largely 18th century Constitution still appropriate for 21st century America? Should we convene a new constitutional convention to remedy its 'defects'? Is the U.S. really a "strong democracy"? This study will address each of these provocative questions by exploring the 1787-1788 debate between Federalists and Anti-Federalists over the original Constitution; some intriguing modern proposals to improve the present document; and whether our current political system has a serious "democracy deficit", and if so, how it might be made more democratic. While there are no formal prerequisites for this study, other than an interest in American history and politics (and a willingness to tackle "big questions"), an introductory study in American government and/or U.S. history is recommended.

Team-taught by the faculty of the Saratoga Unit. As professionals, students, and scholars, we interact and engage in conversations with our employers and co-workers and with our fellow students and instructors on a daily basis. These interactions rely on mutual trust and respect, honor and integrity, and on "ethics," that is, "the moral principles that govern a person's or group's behavior." In this discussion based study group, students will be exposed to a wide range of ethical issues from multi-disciplinary perspectives. Students will be challenged to analyze ethical issues using case studies drawn from historic examples as well as from contemporary life. By engaging in thinking critically about ethical implications of decision making in different fields—philosophy, business, human services, science, politics, history, and the arts—students will be able to connect theory to real-life situations. The study will be grounded in ethical theory and students will have the opportunity to sharpen critical reading, thinking, and writing skills. Meets Humanities General Education Requirement
